1. WILL WOMEN OR MEN ENDURE MORE ABUSE FROM THEIR MATES? YOUR OPINION -
2. SHOULD CHILDREN BE GIVEN TASKS BEYOND THEIR ABILITIES? YES ☐ NO ☐
3. ARE SINGLE OR MARRIED WOMEN MORE INCLINED TO DAYDREAM? YOUR OPINION -
1. Women, because they usually are mothers, have more at stake and are not as free to seek other mates. What some women endure is beyond belief. A classic example is the woman who hailed her husband into court for cruelty, but washed and ironed his shirts so he would appear neat before the judge.
2. No. Tasks beyond their abilities cause a feeling of frustration. This, in turn, causes aggressive conduct and also develops a fear of failure. Fear of failure causes more human failures than lack of ability or anything else in the world.
3. Single women, by a ratio of two and one-half to one. Single women are more inclined to worry about what other people think of them, to possess inferiority feelings, to have less faith in others, to blush, to be interested in pleasure rather than work and to be cynical.

4. DO GIRLS SEEK THE SAME QUALITIES IN A "DATE" AS IN A FUTURE HUSBAND? YOUR OPINION -
4. Only partially so. 1,000 Stephens College girls listed the following qualities: In a date: "ability to dance," "good conversation," "good manners," "attentiveness," "pleasing personality." In a husband: "companionship," "ability to provide," "understanding," "ambition," "intelligence." The first list helps make good husbands but "ambition" and "ability to provide" (except for the date) are not necessary for good dates.

1 IS CHARM INHERITED? YOUR OPINION —

1. Charm is partly inherited, but largely learned. Women can learn to have well-modulated, interesting voices and learn how to talk and act toward both sexes — especially males. No woman has educated herself if she has not studied hard to learn these arts of charm. The secret of personality is learning the skills that serve and interest other people.

2. DO TEENAGE GIRLS OCCASIONALLY PARADE INFERIORITIES TO WIN PRAISE? YES ☐ NO ☐

2. Yes. Some girls constantly tell of their poor marks or poor memory because they think they will be praised for their modesty; also, that they may thus escape doing what they don't like to do or can't do. They think this procedure is safer than having to live up to their boasts or having their bluffs called.

3. CAN MEN OR WOMEN REMAIN QUIET LONGER? YOUR OPINION —

3. Man evolved as a hunter, fisher and fighter. Stronger and bigger than a woman, he keeps moving more. Artists agree that female models easily keep perfectly still four or five times longer than male models. Among wild animals, males roam far more widely than females. Man is the restless sex.

4. SHOULD A WOMAN BE ASHAMED TO SEARCH FOR A HUSBAND? YES ☐ NO ☐

BACHELORS CLUB

4. No. Husbands are either the worst or best of God's gifts to women. Whether good or bad, they're worth looking for. Marriage counselors advise: "Don't read about the opposite sex, go out and meet them." It's the grandest and oldest of sports. Good hunting to you girls: bring 'em back alive!

1. SHOULD YOUNG PEOPLE BELIEVE LOVE WILL LAST FOREVER? YES ☐ NO ☐
2. DO ALL STUDENTS WANT GOOD GRADES FOR THE SAME REASON? YES ☐ NO ☐
3. IS A MODERN GIRL'S DIARY AS ROMANTIC AS HER GRANDMOTHERS? YES ☐ NO ☐
4. DO SOME PEOPLE MARRY BECAUSE THEY ARE NEUROTIC? YES ☐ NO ☐
2. No. Here are some reasons given by 585 students: to please the family; to win honors; to beat some other student; to get a degree; to be admitted to student organizations; to please the professor. Few said they "wanted to learn something." Astonishing!
1. No, but if they didn't they wouldn't be in love. A study of the "serious love affairs" of men and women showed they had averaged more than two each by the time they were 22 years old! Nearly all said being in love had been grand and glorious while it lasted. The experiences left a few broken hearts—probably among the introverts.
12-27
3. No. In the "Mauve Eighties" and "Gay Nineties" a girl coming home from a party would fill several pages in her plush-bound diary with intense romantic sentiments. Now, her great-granddaughters write in a ten-cent note book: "Went to such-and-such party with So-and-So. Divine time," and then tumble into bed.

4. Yes. Dr. Edmund Bergler, a psychiatrist, says (paraphrased): "Neurotics cannot make good marriages. They are, unconsciously, marrying as a solution for their own unhappiness. When a marriage does not make them happy, they blame their partners instead of themselves. Re-education, not divorce, is the answer."

1. WHAT ARE FOUR ESSENTIAL FACTORS FOR A HAPPY MARRIAGE? YOUR OPINION —
2. DOES EVERYBODY WANT TO BE SOMEBODY? YES ☐ NO ☐
3. CAN YOU CONCEAL YOUR REAL CHARACTER FROM YOUR FRIENDS? YES ☐ NO ☐
4. CHILDREN OF DOMINATING PARENTS TEND TO DOMINATE THEIR CHILDREN? TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐
1. These are the essentials for marital happiness: 1. Similarity in family backgrounds, education and social class; 2. Liking many of the same things in most departments; 3. Emotional grownupness; 4. Sincerity of purpose, moral character and sound philosophies of life. If you don't have these, for heaven's sake, take Josh Billings advice, don't!
2. Yes. It is the supreme passion of human beings — far stronger than hunger or sex. Disappointment in love is the keenest pain known to human nature because you feel you are no longer the supreme sombody. The reason we can't reform a beggar is because he has lost the desire to be somebody.
3. No, they're usually on to you. At one college, girls were asked to rate five "best friends" on numerous personality traits. Then two of these five rated the same girl on the same traits without her knowing it. The two agreed remarkably—the majority within three percent. Our friends know us as what we are.
4. True. Psychologist Symonds found children of dominating parents tended to be shy, submissive, and lacking in self-confidence. But when he studies the parents of these dominators, he found they were the same. Plainly, shy, submissive children of dominators take it out on their children.

Certainly. Usually, you hate your job because you can't feel its importance; consequently, you decide that you're contributing nothing of value to the world. But there is no job that is not of great importance. All jobs affect the lives of many others. Think of your job in those terms, and you can be much happier doing it.

Absolutely not! Researchers from the Smithsonian Institute, among other places, measured human heads from the cave man down to the modern man of today. It was proven conclusively that criminals don't differ in head or face from law-abiding humans. Thus, the theory that criminals have a certain kind of head, ears, eyes, nose, etc., has been upset once and for all.

Indeed she does. Nothing inspires a woman more than improving, or trying to improve, some man. But beware, girls! No man wants to feel he's being improved by a woman. And criticism and nagging won't work. Your best bet is to keep him thinking he is perfection. Then he'll work his fool head off to prove it to you.

IS IT HARD TO LAUGH AT YOURSELF?
YES ☐ NO ☐

It's one of the hardest things in the world to do! Many people have never learned that they are not the most important persons in the universe. The true test of maturity is your ability to take a humorous view of yourself, laugh at your own mistakes and deficiencies, and occasionally admit, with a chuckle, that you've made a fool of yourself.

WHERE DOES A WOMAN'S LOYALTY BELONG?
CHILDREN ☐ HUSBAND ☐

To her children always. As a matter of fact, the first loyalty of both parents is to the children—not to each other. Children must perpetuate the human race. Thus parents must protect them in health, morals, and general welfare—even at the risk of their own health, peace of mind, and their lives, if need be.

PEOPLE WOULD RATHER BE FOLLOWERS THAN LEADERS.
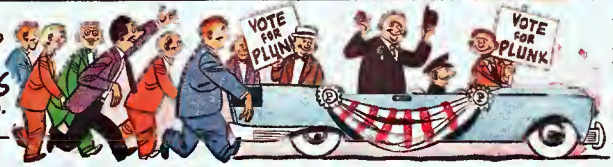
TRUE__ FALSE__



True. Whether it's a picnic, a political campaign, or a war, people are always looking for someone to lead them and tell them what to do. People may vaguely wish they could do the things which leaders do so easily. But they are not willing to make the effort and shoulder the responsibility. As a result, they never get beyond the follower stage.

IS IT NATURAL TO FEAR DEATH?
YES☐ NO☐

No. On the contrary, it is an unnatural fear. An intense fear of death is a sign of a neurotic. You never find, for instance, that children are afraid of death. While you shouldn't fear the inevitable, you certainly don't have to get reckless and foolishly flirt with death.

CAN YOU DISTINGUISH INFATUATION FROM REAL LOVE? YES☐ NO☐

You certainly can! Here's how: True love makes it easy to "forsake all others." It makes constancy, patience, consideration, and sacrifice for your loved one seem about as natural as breathing. Infatuation, on the other hand, concerns itself with physical possession. It is both unreasonable and childish in its demands. Make no mistake about it!

WHO'S MORE AFRAID OF BEING "DIFFERENT"?
MEN ☐ WOMEN ☐

Men — by all means! Women aren't only NOT afraid of being different, but they date on differences! Women go out of their way to stand out in a crowd. This applies to everything — especially women's styles. What happens when two identically dressed women meet face to face? Case dismissed!

WHICH HAVE MORE AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS?

MARRIED WOMEN ☐
SINGLE WOMEN ☐

Single women, according to a recent survey of 40,000 automobile insurance policy holders. Margaret Johnson, a high school director of driver education, suggests that one reason may be that single women have more emotional stresses, tensions and depressions that lead to accidents. Then, too, single women are involved in more accidents while driving to and from work, suggesting that fatigue and job problems may be factors.

DO INSECTS RESPOND TO COLORS?

YES ☐ NO ☐

Yes. Two "bug specialists," Drs. R. A. Morse and R. L. Ghent, of Cornell University found that bees were more likely to sting those in dark colors than those in light. Blue denim and serge attracted more flies and mosquitoes than hard-finished khaki, drill or nylon clothing. Hair oils and perfumes may also attract insects. Insect repellents are no good against bees.

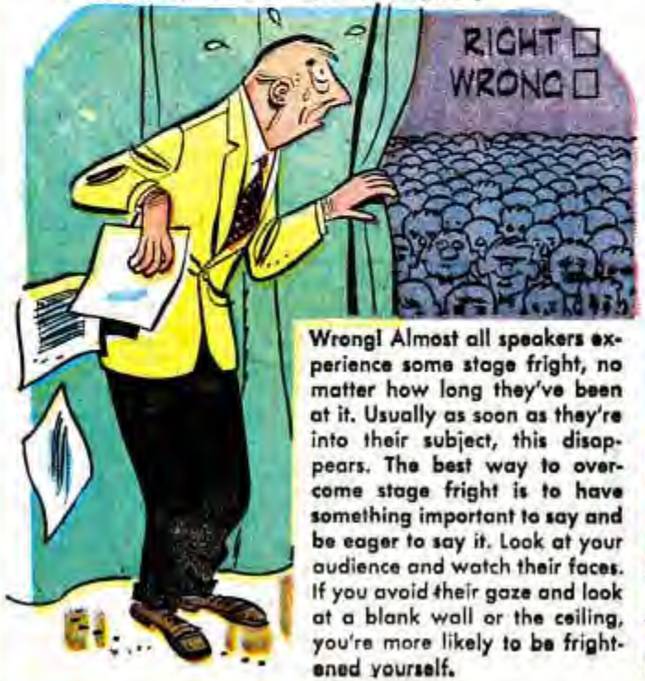
EXPERIENCED SPEAKERS DON'T GET STAGE FRIGHT!



Wrong! Almost all speakers experience some stage fright, no matter how long they've been at it. Usually as soon as they're into their subject, this disappears. The best way to overcome stage fright is to have something important to say and be eager to say it. Look at your audience and watch their faces. If you avoid their gaze and look at a blank wall or the ceiling, you're more likely to be frightened yourself.

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

False. Two research physicians, Drs. Shand and Finesinger, studied navy personnel and found that changes, such as those that result from a new job, marriage or the birth of a child, sometimes result in nervous fatigue. Why? Because people must change their usual ways of behavior and do more, somewhat differently, than they have done before. The strain of such adjustments sometimes brings on that "tired feeling."

YES OR NO
3
CAN WE SAY THAT ANY ACT OR THOUGHT IS "PURELY MENTAL," OR PURELY PHYSICAL?
YES OR NO

RAYMOND KANAGAN

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Not all moral questions can be answered with absolute scientific accuracy, but no decision as to what is morally right is possible without science. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—Dr. Knight Dunlap, one of the most original present day psychologists, in a new book on social psychology, "Civilized Life," shows it is much harder to distinguish beautiful from homely women than to do the same with men because women have so many more ways of concealing their defects and emphasizing their virtues. Rouge, lipstick, beauty patches, all sorts of coiffures and all colors of hair, a thousand styles of hats, all the artistic genius of the dress designer lend beauty to women while a man remains pretty much as is.

2.—No. Dr. Alfred Adler, famous Viennese psychologist, maintains that with most people it is just another manifestation of that universal desire to be important. Honestly now, don't you feel immensely important at an accident if you get there in time to be the first to hold up the sufferer's head, give him—or her—a drink of water, bathe his face, etc., with everybody looking on? I get a big kick out of it.

3.—Psychologists do not believe so. Edward L. Thorndike in speaking of deafness says it may be objected that deafness is a physical trait—but, he adds, so are all mental traits. All mental traits have a physical basis, Dr. F. Matthias Alexander in a significant new book, "The Use of the Self," says: "It is possible to demonstrate that the mental and physical work together . . . in all activity . . . The mental and physical are not separate entities . . . Human ills and shortcomings cannot be classified as mental or as physical.

1. Are men or women more concerned about doing what's "proper"? Your opinion?

Women, more than men, generally want to do what is considered right and proper. Studies find that traditionally women have been the more faithful church-goers; they are more concerned with matters of religion, personal conduct and morality. They try to do the proper thing far more than men do on the whole. Since women take more responsibility for relationships between people in the family and community, they may be seen as the collective conscience in many a situation. Could this be one reason for their gossip about those who step out of line?

2. Is an office just "one big, happy family"? Yes or no?

Yes, say some psychiatrists. It may not be too happy, but it is often quite similar to a family. You may have to take what the one in authority dishes, out, just as you did when you were a child. You may have fears of punishment similar to those you felt years ago. Perhaps most important, your main cause of trouble may be that you react toward the Boss as you once did toward your father.
